1. By the end of April 1952 the Kwangsi Military District, acting on instructions from the Central and South China Military and Administrative Committee and the Central and South China Military Area Command, had completed its plan for the reassignment of cadre members in its armed forces units and organizations for the first quarter of 1952. The major changes resulting from the reassignment of cadre members for this quarter, as carried out by the Kwangsi Military District, were as follows:
 - a. Nine hundred cadre members from the production agencies of the Kwangsi Military District Supply and Service Command were transferred to the production and trading agencies of the Central and South China Area.
 - b. Two hundred and fifty cadre members from military educational organizations of the Kwangsi Military District were transferred to various Kwangsi public security organizations.
 - c. Seventy cadre members from the Transport Department of the Supply and Service Command of the Kwangsi Military District were transferred to the Kwangsi Highway Administration.
 - d. Eighty cadre members from armed forces units of the Kwangsi Military District were transferred to various industrial and technical schools in the Central and South China Area.
 - e. One hundred and sixty cadre members of the Peoples' Armed Forces units¹ of the Kwangsi Military District were transferred to Kwangsi public security organizations.
 - f. Forty cadre members from veterans' schools of the Kwangsi Military District were transferred to the Liuchow (109-16, 24-18) Steel Factory.
